Summary

Combining creativity with sensitive story-telling and technical skills has enabled me to deliver award winning film, television and multimedia across several genres for over twenty years.

I completed a degree in Fine Arts in Computer Art in the early 1990's and since then have been freelancing as an editor, designer and director - on feature films, shorts, television, documentaries, children's television and lifestyle television shows.

I engage in the creative - from writing and directing, to editing and designing. I have a keen interest in animation, my short animated film "The Mobile Meat Processing Unit" has screened worldwide.

I also design and coordinate marketing campaigns, as well as design, create and implement websites, including e-commerce solutions.

I have been self-employed since 1992, working on a contract basis through my company Raynbird Limited
